INTRODUCTORY.

The CITY DIRECTORY is a semi-public institution, in which the entire population is represented and interested. It is used by all classes and conditions of people in every locality in the city and by every stranger who comes within the city limits every day in the year. Furthermore it is the custom of directory publishers to maintain directory libraries in all cities having a population of twenty thousand or more and the Billings Directory therefore will be consulted by thousands who seek information concerning Billings citizens and mercantile houses and all the various institutions which make up a city.

The use of city directories is becoming more general, and their great importance as business factors is now universally recognized. There is nothing more conducive to the development and extension of commerce than an easy means of communication such as is afforded by a complete and reliable city directory. It is an unexcelled medium for use in the purchase of goods, and every business man should avail himself of the opportunity which it offers for the full and proper classification of his business, and for keeping his card where it may be found at all times by those who seek such information.

Every business and professional man should spend some of his leisure hours in examining the city directory. He will find it full of profitable suggestions.

One who uses the city directory will be infinitely better fitted for his business and eminently more successful than one who depends upon his own resources for such information.

Keep the city directory in a convenient place for frequent reference, and invite your customers to use it. You will extend your acquaintance and advertise your business, and your establishment will be come more popular and profitable.

The first edition of R. L. Polk & Co's Billings City and Yellowstone County Directory is presented with the assurance that the data has been gathered and compiled by experienced men under an infallible system, and while men are fallible, yet the work is as complete and accurate as it is possible to produce. All the features of the largest metropolitan directories are incorporated in the work. Although it is the first edition of the Billings and Yellowstone County Directory, yet it is not a new venture for the publishers, who have been engaged for more than thirty-one years exclusively in directory making.

In no line of business is experience more necessary than in directory work, and the experience gained in nearly a third of a century in this work has been used to excellent advantage in the production of the volume herewith presented.

This volume contains a complete City Directory of Billings and of all the villages in Yellowstone County.

It also contains a full and complete list of all the land owners and tax-paying farmers in the County, giving first the name of the owner of each piece of property, its location indicating the section upon which it is situated, the township, and range, the number of acres with the assessed valuation, and the postoffice address of the owner. It also shows whether the party is a land owner or a tenant.

A complete list of all the banks, churches and societies and all the institutions and organizations existing within the County will be found conveniently arranged, and full and complete description of the County and descriptions of all the cities, towns and villages in the County will be found in proper order.

A complete classified business directory of all the persons doing business in the County will be found in the last section of the work. This classified business directory will be appreciated as a useful purchaser's guide, both by the residents of this community and to all those who look to this market for supplies.

BILLINGS AND YELLOWSTONE COUNTY DIRECTORY.

POPULATION.

Billings according to the U. S. Census in June, 1900, was 3,221, and the total population of Yellowstone County according to the same authority was 6,212. There are in the Billings portion of this work 1,880 individual names; using the multiple of $2\frac{1}{2}$ which it is found correctly represents the number of women and children whose names are not included in the directory a population of 4,700 is indicated for Billings at the present time.

There are 3,269 names in the county portion of the directory the application of the same multiple will indicate a population of 8,172 for Yellowstone County.

This is an immense growth and highly encouraging to those interested in the welfare of Billings and Yellowstone County.

The Association of American Directory Publishers is the society of all reputable persons engaged in the business of publishing City Directories for the mutual advancement of the Directory business. Any person, corporation or firm engaged in business as owner and publisher of a City Directory in the United States, who shall qualify as competent to gather and compile a City Directory and furnish satisfactory references, is eligible to membership.

The object of the Association is:

First. The advancement of the Directory business and the improvement of Directories by the interchange of ideas and the exchange of experienced employees.

Second. To provide protection to the public against fraudulent advertising schemes which operate under the name of Directories, and to drive unprincipled Directory publishers out of the business.

Third. To provide continuous, permanent and profitable employment to competent, industrious and honest Directory canvassers and compilers.

Fourth. For the mutual protection and advancement of the established and prospective interests of all who may become members. By personal advice and assistance of members as may be mutually satisfactory, desirable or advisable. By such other means as may, from time to time, be shown to be wise, proper and lawful.

BILLINGS CITY.

Billings is in no sense a boom city, its steady and substantial growth being due to the fact that it is the center of a territory which is splendidly endowed by nature with the elements that develop a rich and prosperous community.

The sources from which it draws its commercial vitality are varied, and its supply of wealth inexhaustible, draw a circle around the city reaching 150 miles to the north and same distance to the south, compress the east and west sides of the circles so that each will be 75 miles from the city, and the territory enclosed will be that which is tributary to the city. This stretch of country is dotted with as fine herds of cattle and flocks of sheep as the great west produces, and between the ranges are numerous valleys dotted with irrigated farms, on which are raised many varieties of fruits, vegetables and grain. Rich mineral ores are plentiful near the city, and within the past few years mines have been developed rapidly. In the midst of so liberal a setting of marketable commodities it is no wonder that this modern city has grown up on the north bank of the Yellowstone river in so comparatively short a time.

The resources of the country are only partly developed and as agriculture and industry increase the city offers many attractions to those in search of homes and competencies. Already Billings has advantages and improvements which, as a rule are to be found only in cities which have considerably larger population.

The waterworks system is in conformity with the most advanced ideas both in point of water for drinking purposes and the supply for protection against fire. The health of the city is preserved by a fine system of sewerage, and the hygienic conditions are looked after most carefully generally. Among the other public and semi-public utilities with which the city is equipped are: An electric light plant; a telephone system which traverses the surrounding country for a good many miles; a thoroughly equipped fire department; a free public library, maintained by the city and public spirited citizens; four public school buildings; a fine high school; an elegant opera house; a club, the objects of which is to advance social and business interests; three up-to-date newspapers; five churches; a modern hospital conducted by the Sisters of Charity; two national banks; a number of big business blocks and many handsome homes. A new school house is being built on the south side to cost $25,000.

Billings, which is named after Frederick Billings, deceased, at one time president of the Northern Pacific Railroad, was laid out in March, 1882, by the Minnesota & Montana Land & Improvement Company. That it is a natural health resort is indicated by the fact that it has an elevation of 3,112 feet. It is on the main trans-continental line of the Northern Pacific Railroad, and is 892 miles from St Paul, 1,164 miles from Portland and 238 miles from Helena, the state capital. The city also is reached by the Wyoming branch of the Burlington & Missouri River Railroad.

One of the most pretensions and important institutions of the city is the Parmly Billings Memorial Library.

In March, 1898, S E Kilner, trustee of the estate of the late Frederick Billings, suggested to Frederick Billings, Jr, the idea of erecting and presenting to the city of Billings a library building, and dedicating the same to his brother, Parmly Billings, to be known as the Parmly Billings Memorial Library. Parmly Billings was, before his death, largely interested in lands and banking in the city. The building is prominently located on one of the principal streets of the city, and presents a handsome appearance. It is built of native sandstone and granite, tile roofing and copper trimmings. It is finished throughout in oak and is, in every respect, a model library building. Everything pertaining to the building and furnishings has been furnished at the expense of Frederick Billings, Jr, involving an outlay of $25,000 to $30,000.

Other conspicuous buildings of the city are: St Vincent's Hospital, the Yellowstone Valley Mills, the Billings Brewery and the Grand Hotel.

The Association of American Directory Publishers is the society of all reputable persons engaged in the business of publishing City Directories for the mutual advancement of the Directory business. Any person, corporation or firm engaged in business as owner and publisher of a City Directory in the United States, who shall qualify as competent to gather and compile a City Directory and furnish satisfactory references, is eligible to membership.

The object of the Association is:

First. The advancement of the Directory business and the improvement of Directories by the interchange of ideas and the exchange of experienced employees.

Second. To provide protection to the public against fraudulent advertising schemes which operate under the name of Directories, and to drive unprincipled Directory publishers out of the business.

Third. To provide continuous, permanent and profitable employment to competent, industrious and honest Directory canvassers and compilers.

Fourth. For the mutual protection and advancement of the established and prospective interests of all who may become members. By personal advice and assistance of members as may be mutually satisfactory, desirable or advisable. By such other means as may from time to time, be shown to be wise, proper and lawful.

and potatoes are staple articles, and apples, grapes, plums, cherries and all small fruits are raised without difficulty. The productiveness of the soil is a cause of wonder to those who are not accustomed to farming operations conducted under the influence of irrigation.

About three-fourths of the county is grazing lands and stock raising is of course, the principal industry, and with the bringing of more lands within the zone of irrigation more attention is being given to combined stock raising and farming. The county now has in the assessment roll about 100 miles of irrigation ditches, the total of which is $4,480,052. A large canal is to be built under the direction of the State Arid Land Commission, which is intended to divert the waters of the Yellowstone to the bench lands east of Billings.

Among the recent assessments in the county were 142,752 sheep, valued at $356,832; 20,241 cattle, valued at $430,540; 7,177 horses, valued at $116,222; 1,963 mules, valued at $51,196, an aggregate stock valuation of nearly one million dollars.

Yellowstone County.

Yellowstone County is so called from the river of the same name which flows through it. Its present producing area is 825,101 acres, and it is essentially a stock growing and agricultural county. The soil is naturally fertile and it has been made more so by irrigation, the result being that the county is one of the most productive and wealthy in the state. The yields of corn and vegetables are very large. Alfalfa has proven to be one of the most profitable staples, three crops being cut in a season, the yield being from four to six tons to the acre. Wheat runs from 35 to 40 bushels, oats from 50 to 125 bushels per acre, and other grains in proportion. Of late years barley has been raised with excellent results, the dry weather which prevails during harvest time being specially adapted to its culture. Flax and potatoes are staple articles, and apples, grapes, plums, cherries and all small fruits are raised without difficulty. The productiveness of the soil is a cause of wonder to those who are not accustomed to farming operations conducted under the influence of irrigation.

About three-fourths of the county is grazing lands and stock raising is of course, the principal industry, and with the bringing of more lands within the zone of irrigation more attention is being given to combined stock raising and farming. The county now has in the assessment roll about 100 miles of irrigation ditches, the total of which is $4,480,052. A large canal is to be built under the direction of the State Arid Land Commission, which is intended to divert the waters of the Yellowstone to the bench lands east of Billings.

Among the recent assessments in the county were 142,752 sheep, valued at $356,832; 20,241 cattle, valued at $430,540; 7,177 horses, valued at $116,222; 1,963 mules, valued at $51,196, an aggregate stock valuation of nearly one million dollars.

The towns in the county besides Billings are Columbus, Park

City and Laurel on the west, Junction on the east, and Roundup and Musselshell crossing on the north. The Crow Reservation lies to the south, separated by the Yellowstone river, and a portion of this reservation is to become a part of the county. The water for irrigating purposes is furnished by the Yellowstone and Musselshell rivers, and the small streams tributary to them.

The Yellowstone Fair Association was organized in 1892, for the purpose of exhibiting the wonderful products of eastern Montana, and it has been remarkably successful, more than paying its way from the start. The association is incorporated with a capital stock of $20,000 and it owns a forty-acre tract of land in the northeastern part of the city of Billings. The grounds contain a half mile oval race track, a grand stand of ample proportions, stable and feed barns, and handsome buildings for the display of grain, vegetables, fruit and minerals. Nearly every land owner in the valley is a shareholder in the association. Each year the Crow tribe of Indians visits the fair, making a unique spectacle with their pony herds, dogs, squaws and papooses.

The Yellowstone Valley has the distinction of enjoying more sunshine than any place in the world, according to the reports of the United States Signal Service. This is one reason for it being among the most healthful places in the United States. Contagious diseases are unknown and sickness of any sort is very rare. The winters usually are cold, but rarely set in until Christmas, and the air is so dry that it is more comfortable with the thermometer at 30 degrees below zero than it is in many eastern and middle states with the mercury at the freezing point. In summer the weather is sometimes very warm, but not debilitating, and the nights are always cool. All things considered a more pleasant place of residence could scarcely be found.

Montana produces the largest amount of wool annually of any state in the union, the total being about 25,000,000 pounds, about 7,000,000 pounds of which is tributary to Yellowstone county. Sheep raising in the state is conducted on scientific business lines. Cattle raising is an important and profitable industry.

In addition to the natural waterways, the county is provided with transportation facilities by the Northern Pacific and the Burlington & Missouri River railroads.
