BILLINGS.

Billings is the chief manufacturing, jobbing, financial and general business center of an enormous empire, embracing part of nine counties in Montana and five counties in Wyoming. It is situated on the transcontinental Northern Pacific Railroad, 900 miles west of the Twin Cities and 600 miles east of Spokane, and on the transcontinental Gulf to Sound Great Northern Railroad, 500 miles northwest of Denver.

The author of this directory estimates the population to be, January 1, 1914, 15,000. The population in 1900 was 3,211; in 1910, 10,031.

Billings was platted by the Northern Pacific Railroad in 1882. It was named in honor of Frederick Billings, formerly President of the road. It was then at the head of navigation of the Yellowstone River, but since the advent of so many railroads, navigation has ceased. So Billings is now the hub of railroads extending in ten directions; the Northern Pacific, east and west; the Great Northern, north; the Burlington & Northern Pacific, with four branches, south and southwest; the Burlington, southeast; a railroad twenty miles long extending northeast, known as the Billings & Central Montana, and a Northern Pacific branch 100 miles long, extending northwest. Trains departing each morning for the terminus of these branches and returning each evening give Billings a constant transient population probably number 1,000 or more. The city is provided with fifteen hotels for the care of these, the chief of which are the Northern and the Grand. The railroad facilities, with their 24 passenger trains each day, make the city extremely easy of access; but in addition to these, Billings is the gateway to the Yellowstone National Park, and is in the direct line of travel to Glacier National Park. So, situated on the Yellowstone trail, which gathers at this point traffic also from the Denver-National Parks trail, and many tributary automobile roads, the city is a rendezvous for automobile tourists.

Billings is already the greatest jobbing centre in the State of Montana and paid the railroads in 1913 for freight shipments on merchandise more than any other city in the State. There are located here some 15 jobbing houses of various kinds, including machinery, groceries, produce and hardware, and it is estimated that the business done in hardware and machinery alone in 1913 was more than $3,000,000.

The largest manufacturing concern in the city is the beet sugar factory, costing $2,000,000, and the only one north of Colorado between Minnesota and the Pacific coast. It paid something more than $1,501,000 for the beet crop of 1913 and employs during the campaign season about 450 people.

Billings has also a large and modern foundry; a gas plant costing $250,000; a creamery which has an output of 40,000 pounds of butter a month; a small packing plant which handles dressed beef, mutton and pork; a flouring mill, daily capacity of 600 barrels; largest sash and door factory in eastern Montana; planing mills; a large brewery; a mattress factory; cement block plant; a brick plant, and many other small but prosperous and growing industries.

Eight banks care for the financial interests of the domain tributary to Billings. They have a combined capital of $650,000 and deposits in 1913 of more than $5,000,000; clearings from Jan. 1, 1913, to Nov. 6, were $18,360,367.27, as compared with the same period in 1912, which showed $14,772,262.91.

Billings has the only street car system west of the Missouri River operating the Edison storage battery cars, which run without trolley or cable.

Its educational facilities aside from the public schools, include a manual training school, business college and Polytechnic Institute which is practically as large as the State Agricultural College. To take care of public education there are ten buildings within the city limits and six in outlying districts, employing 75 teachers. The public schools in the Billings district had enrolled at the beginning of the school year, 1913, 2,325, a gain of 200 over the previous year, the school census showing a juvenile population of 3,922.

The principal public buildings are a federal building costing $150,000; a court house, $105,000; city hall, $50,000; a $90,000 high school building has just been completed; the Parmly Billings Memorial Library; Masonic Temple, $100,000; a Y. M. C. A. building, $85,000; Elks' Club building, $150,000. The Masonic Temple and Elks' Club buildings are among the most expensive and elaborate in the west. The Babcock theatre, an exceedingly artistic and luxurious play house, is a noted one and secures all the leading attractions touring the country. The city is well supplied with churches, nearly every denomination is represented.

The City has employed a Park Commissioner and is spending thousands of dollars in the improvement of parks and boulevards.

Two daily Associated Press papers, the Billings Gazette and Billings Evening Journal, supply a metropolitan news service. The city improvements are keeping pace with the growth of the city.

All the principal business streets are paved, and three extensive improvement districts far paving are now being completed. The street lighting is unsurpassed, 50 tungsten lamps supported by ornamental posts light each block of the business district.

Hydro electric power is cheaper in Billings than at Niagara Falls. It is even used for cooking purposes in many Billings homes, and serves to turn the wheels of every form of industry. In the Billings district are some of the richest coal mines in the country, giving the city cheap fuel.

With its natural strategic position and the start which the city has secured, it is believed by the best authorities that Billings is to become the chief city between the Twin Cities and the Pacific coast.

Although the city depends to a large extent for its prosperity on its commercial development, its chief and most secure foundation is in agriculture. It is the center of one of the largest irrigated districts in the world, where beet raising and many branches of intensive farming are practiced. Recently farming in the uplands without irrigation has proven a wonderful success, and settlers from every direction have flocked to this section of Montana and taken homesteads. Formerly stock raising was the principal interest. It is now, however, dividing its supremacy with the small farmer, and the combination of these two adds to the diversification and multiplies the wealth. Miles and miles of wheat fields have taken the place of great areas formerly used only for grazing. On the numerous irrigated projects intensive farming is coming strongly into vogue, and the day is not far distant when every 40 acres of irrigated land in this enormous district will support a family. Millions have been invested in government and private irrigation projects and all are proving great successes.

One of the chief assets of the Billings country is the climate. The altitude of the city is 3,115 feet; the precipitation, 14.96 inches; the mean annual temperature 47.2 degrees; that of summer being 69 degrees and of winter, 29.2 degrees. The sun shines during some part of the day of more than 340 days each year. The generally cool and invigorating atmosphere with an abundance of sunshine makes the climate exceedingly delightful, and is responsible for the fact that the death rate here is 7.4 per cer thousand—one of the lowest in America.

YELLOWSTONE COUNTY

Yellowstone County, of which Billings is the County Seat, has an area of 2232 square miles, having lost a large amount of its territory through county divisions, and until another federal census is taken, exact statistics as to population will not be available. It is estimated that the county has about 22,000 population.

It is traversed across its center by the Yellowstone River and is one of the richest counties in the state. Its large amount of irrigated land makes its agriculture extremely important.

The 1913 valuation of property in the county, based on a Its chief assets are agriculture and stock raising. It is estimated that about 60 per cent of the land is good agricultural land, and the remainder is used for grazing purposes. 35 per cent ratio, is $14,511,497.

JUNCTION.

A discontinued postoffice, 53 miles northeast of Billings.
Mail to Custer.

LAUREL.

Is located in the valley of the Yellowstone, at the Junction of the main line of the N P Ry and the Red Lodge Branch of the same road and C B & Q Terminal, and is maintained by both her railway and agricultural industries. Contiguous to her is the most prolific and productive agricultural area of Montana, the principal products thereof consisting of cereals, fruit and sugar beets. From all these, tremendous yields are obtained, the beet fields largely maintaining the sugar factory located some 16 miles east of us, and our fruit rivaling in both flavor and quality that produced in the most favored regions of either Washington or Oregon. As the terminal division point of the N P Ry, with one of the larges and most modern roundhouses to be found in the entire West, with a railway payroll averaging from $25,000 to $40,000 per month and constantly increasing, our city derives from this source a revenue of tremendous importance.

The city administration of Laurel have finished the construction of a waterworks and sewerage plant on an elaborate scale, and with the completion of this public utility enterprise this city has become one of the most desirable residence towns to be found in the entire state.

The most salubrious climatic conditions prevail in Laurel and the surrounding country, thus adding to its manifold attractions. Public school system on the accredited list and one of the best in the state. Thomas A Rigney, postmaster.

RED LODGE, MONTANA

A thriving, hustling progressive city of 5,500 people situated at the southern terminus of the Rocky Fork and Cooke City Branch of the Northern Pacific Ry, 44 miles from the main line. The county seat of Carbon, equal to any in the great State of Montana in fertility of soil, diversity of crop production, variety of resources and the only county in Montana—and for that matter, in the vast Northwest—where coal of untold and unmeasurable and time enduring supply exists—semi-bituminous—equal to any demands that may be made upon it for railroad, factory or domestic purposes. The source of water supply is Rocky Fork creek, a stream of pure and sparkling mountain water, and a gravity system is utilized, tapping the creek about two and one-half miles above the town.

Telephones, electric lights, cluster street lights, sewerage-cement sidewalks and many other improvements to the city have been added as the demands required, until Red Lodge is now one of the best and most progressive county seats in the state.

Red Lodge is only 45 miles from the Yellowstone park by trail over the Beartooth mountains. It has excellent schools, churches, business houses of every kind, and is the political and trades center of the county.

Red Lodge is a modern little city of which its people may well be proud. Here, the cost of living is reduced to a minimum for the man who labors with brawn or brain. It has many stores of all kinds, well stocked with the best goods the market affords, and competition is very keene. Hence service is perfect and quality of the best. A big item in saving is the fuel, best coal delivered costing but $3.25 per ton.

Financial statements of the three banks show the city and country surrounding to be prosperous. Two large hotels, a hospital, a brewery, a Masonic temple, Labor temple, County Free High School building, five graded school buildings, and a fine residence district with plenty of modern homes in all parts of the city are some of the things for which the Red Lodge citizen may be thankful.

STREET AND AVENUE GUIDE.

Explanatory.

Excepting Broadway a thoroughfare when running north and south is designated an avenue; when running east and west a street.

All Avenues and Streets in the following guide are compiled alphabetically irrespective of their relative positions.

Broadway and an imaginary extension of the same along the right of way of the Northern Pacific Railway and East and West Eleventh streets have been made initial points of numbering and the divisional points in the application of compass designations to the streets. Thus to the first block north or south of Eleventh street the numbers 1 to 99 have been assigned; to the second block 101 to 199; to the third block 201 to 299; to the fourth block 301 to 399; to the fifth block 401 to 499; to the sixth block 501 to 599; to the seventh block 601 to 699; to the eighth block 701 to 799; to the ninth block 801 to 899; to the tenth block 901 to 999; to the eleventh block south of Eleventh street 1001 to 1099; to the twelfth block 1001 to 1199; to the thirteenth block, 1201 to 1299; to the fourteenth block 1301 to 1399; to the fifteenth block 1401 to 1499.

To the first block east or west of North or South Broadway, 1 to 99; to the second block 101 to 199; to the third block 201 to 299; to the fourth block, 301 to 399; to the fifth block, 401 to 499; to the sixth block, 501 to 599; to the seventh block west, 601 to 699; to the eighth block, 701 to 799; to the ninth block, 801 to 899; to the tenth block, 901 to 999.

All Avenues crossing Eleventh Street have the prefix North when north and the prefix South when south of the same; all Streets crossing Broadway have the prefix East when east and the prefix West when west of the same.

CARBON COUNTY

Carbon County, organized in 1895, soon after the segregation of the territory comprising the county from the Crow Indian Reservation, has been rapidly settled and its growth has been marvelous. Bounded on the south by the Beartooth Mountains, from which spring several large rivers, and numberless streams, the lands of Carbon County are especially well watered. Its soil is productive and its climate healthful and invigorating. While essentially a farming, fruit-growing and stock-raising county, Carbon is also the chief coal-producing section of the Northwest. It has the largest, best known and most inexhaustible coal measures in Montana, which are extensively operated, thus affording a permanent and constant home market for the products of the farm. The presence of these three industries—each flourishing, and helpful to the others—insures the prosperity of the whole community.

Twelve coal mining plants are in operation in Carbon County, an employ an aggregate of 2,000 men.

Two million tons of coal are annually produced in Carbon County. During the past year extensive development work has been done at Red Lodge, Washoe and Bear Creek, and the coming season will show a very large increase in the production and in the number of men employed.

Carbon County has yet a large acreage of unappropriated Government land. This land is almost all on the divides between the principal streams, which traverse the county from the mountains on the south, emptying into the Yellowstone River on the north. These streams are the two Rosebuds, Rock Creek and Clark's Fork and their tributaries. With the exception of Clark's Fork all of them have heavy falls, so that the water can be carried by ditches over the higher lands between with comparatively slight expense. They furnish ample irrigating water for all the settled lands and then their full capacity is not nearly reached, as is proven by the fact that the rights to the water of but one stream, Rock Creek, have been adjudicated.

Of the unappropriated public land, much is suitable for dry farming. Most of this land is between Rock Creek and the Rosebuds. The soil is principally a black, sandy loam, and abounds in springs and small streams.

Dry farming has been successfully practiced for several years in the southern part of the above territory, and the yield of crops has compared very favorably with adjoining irrigated lands. The principal crops are wheat, oats and barley. Yields average for oats from 60 to 90 bushels, wheat 30 to 50 bushels, and barley from 40 to 45 bushels per acre.

There is one grain elevator and numerous grain warehouses throughout the country.

There is a creamery and refrigerating plant in Red Lodge.

Joliet has a flour mill of 200 barrels capacity. The plant was erected at a cost of $50,000. There are other good locations for flour mills which will be utilized when the wheat supply is increased.

The most important agricultural section of the county is the Clark's Fork Valley, which is one of the most productive portions of Montana, furnishing as great a variety in products of agriculture and horticulture as may be found in the State, from wheat to corn. The valley, varying in width from four to ten miles, is nearly one hundred miles long, extending from Laurel, Mont., to Wyoming. Transportation facilities are furnished by a branch line of the Northern Pacific Railroad from Billings.

Sugar beets are extensively grown and are shipped to the Billings beet sugar factory. All grains and grasses yield prolifically. Apples, plums, pears, peaches, watermelons and cantaloupes are grown to perfection. Even a little tobacco is grown for home consumption. The cantaloupes are said to be equal in flavor to those grown at Rocky Ford, Colo., and if they were grown in quantities so that shipments in carload lots could be made at regular intervals they would be eagerly bought by residents of Montana at prices assuring large profits to the growers.

Fruit grows to a good size, is excellent in flavor and appearance, is free from worms and possesses splendid keeping qualities. In this valley, near Fromberg, is the celebrated Clark orchard.

On irrigated lands the principal crops vary with the altitude. In the southern central portion of the county, where the altitude is about 5,000 feet, the chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, potatoes and timothy hay, all of which yield above the average, and are of exceptional quality, as instanced by oats weighing from 40 to 45 pounds to the bushel. In the lower altitude, to the above mentioned crops may be added alfalfa, hay, sugar beets, and apples.

These irrigated lands are largely supplied with water from individual rights, or an interest in a neighborhood ditch, there being comparatively few incorporated ditch companies, and the water right sells with the land. Such lands sell from $25 to $50 per acre, until the fruit belt is reached, and then the price advances to $100 to $150 per acre, the prices depending upon location, fitness for special crops and improvements. Such lands are selling at prices which will seem low a few years from now. Unirrigated lands can be bought for $10 per acre or less.

Red Lodge, the county seat, is the largest town. The city owns its own waterworks, which is a most excellent system.

originally costing $35,000, and is now valued at $75,000. The city has recently completed a sewerage system costing $30,000. Between twelve and fifteen miles of concrete sidewalk are now completed, and more walk is being added continually.

Other thriving townse are Roberts, on railroad, in the center of an excellent farming and dairy country, from which is shipped more farm produce and cream than any other station in the county; Luther, on West Red Lodge Creek, which is the center of a thickly settled and prosperous community; Joliet, on lower Rock Creek, which is the trading point of a rich farming and fruit country and where a waterworks system and an electric light plant are being installed; Fromberg, in the center of the richest part of Clark's Fork Valley; Bridger, in the same valley, having both agriculture and coal mining as the basis of its prosperity; Belfry, a railroad junction and trading place, and Bear Creek, where are five coal mines.

There is a strong probability that oil will be found in Clark's Fork Valley. In the mountains are mining claims, showing ores of gold, silver, lead and copper.

As a place for an outing Carbon County offers many attractions; the climate is healthy; the streams are filled with trout; the foothills furnish fine hunting of small and feathered game, while all kinds of large game are to be found farther back, and the forests, the streams, the lakes and the mountains contain some of the most picturesque scenery in America.

Columbus, Stillwater County, Montana

Columbus, the county seat of the new county of Stillwater is a growing little city of about 1,000 people. It is located on the main line of the Northern Pacific railway in the Yellowstone Valley, and geographically it could not have been more centrally located to serve the people of Stillwater county as its county seat. It is the distributing point for all the small inland towns lying both north and south of the railroad.

It is elegantly lighted by electricity and has unlimited power service for domestic and commercial use. It has now in the course of construction a water system for fire and domestic purposes that, when completed, will be a credit to a town many times the size of Columbus.

It has four hustling mercantile houses, two substantial banks, two saloons, two lumber yards, three livery barns, a first class club and pool hall, two good hotels, two restaurants, a modern blacksmith and machine shop, harness shop, and minor business houses and tradesmen. The professions are well represented. The Masons, Odd Fellows, Redmen lodges are well represented and have commodious lodge rooms. The Stillwater Club, a social organization, have most elegantly furnished rooms and a large membership, and a hearty welcome is extended to strangers. Above all, Columbus has the distinction of having one of the best public schools in the State. It has also within its limits a modern stone quarry the products of which are shipped to all portions of the Northwest. Columbus sandstone is noted for its beauty and durability far and wide.

It has two thriving newspapers, the News, the official organ of the county, and the Democrat. Both have able men at the helm and give the public better reading and their advertisements more publicity than the ordinary country town weekly paper. The professional men are well represented and among them are competent physicians and surgeons and able lawyers. Among its residences are many beautiful and modern homes. Cement sidewalks and crossings are laid over the entire town and the streets are well graveled. Among its business places are found many substantial buildings of stone and brick.

Its trade zone reaches a radius of over 30 miles in every direction, and from a business point of view Columbus has present better opportunities than most of the towns in the State.

Stillwater County, Montana

Stillwater County has the distinction of being the youngest county in the great Treasure State. It was created by the vote of the people within the confines of its boundaries in a special election held on March 15th, 1913, being formed from portions of the old counties of Yellowstone, Carbon and Sweet Grass. Its area is something like 47 Townships or approximately 1,000,000 acres. While its area is not equal to most of the Counties in the State, it probably has within its confines more acres of productive tillable land than any other County in the State. The Southern portion is composed of the rich valleys of the Stillwater and the Rosebud Rivers and the productive bench lands of the Shane. Joe Hill, White Bird and Countryman creeks divides, while the extreme Southern portion of the County extends into the rich coal and ore fields of the Bear-tooth Range of the Rocky Mountains. This portion of the County is also noted for its beautiful scenery, fine trout fishing and excellent hunting grounds.

The historic Yellowstone River crosses the County through the middle portion, giving it many acres of fertile irrigated land raising bounteous crops of all kinds of grain, alfalfa and fruits. To the North it has the fertile divides of the White Beaver. Kayser, Hensley and Volley creeks and the vast empire of level land known as the Great Lake Basin which consists of some of the best agricultural land found anywhere in the West.

As a whole Stillwater County is an agricultural county with a great future. Alfalfa is the King of the irrigated crops, with oats, other small grains, fruits and vegetables next in importance. With an average rainfall of from 18 to 24 inches a year, and the fertility of the soil makes the bench and non-irrigated lands produce bounteous crops of winter wheat, flax, barley and oats, not surpassed anywhere in the State for yield and quality. Cattle, horses, sheep and hogs are also extensively raised, and dairying will eventually be an important factor. Climatic conditions are ideal, while the summer days are warm, the nights are always cool on account of the altitude and the winters are milder than any other portion of the United States in the same latitude, excepting the west coast.

PARK CITY.

Park City is located on the main line of the Northern Pacific Ry, 25 miles west of Billings and 18 miles east of Columbus, the county seat, in a very fertile part of the Yellowstone valley. The townsite is perfectly level, the buildings well painted and well kept, while the large shade trees, the smooth green lawns, the beautiful park, and the clean, well graded streets all lend their charms to make it a pleasant place in which to live.

The land around Park City is of the very best. With an abundance of water for irrigation, the richest of soil, and a good growing climate the crops of sugar beets, alfalfa, grain, etc., are always excellent and the yields surprisingly large. Here we find the oldest and best orchards, the highest per cent of saccharine matter in the sugar beets, the banner crop of oats per acre (150 bus.) and the largest yield of potatoes per acre.

Lying north of and tributary to Park City, is the great Lake Basin country which is being rapidly settled. The showing made by this country last year in the face of the drouth proves that it is beyond the experimental stage and that success is sure where the work is done in accordance with scientific principles. The wheat crop last year went from 18 to 30 bushels per acre which, when we consider the unusually dry season, was a good showing indeed. Under favorable conditions this so-called dry land will yield far greater returns. There may still be had good dry land homesteads near Park City.

Here you will find a community of generous, broad-minded, intelligent people so thoroughly imbued with the western spirit of hospitality that you will feel at home from the very first day. Exp, Northern. Tel W U. Edward W Peck, postmaster.

BIG HORN COUNTY DIRECTORY—HARDIN

HARDIN

Hardin, the principal market point of the county, a rapidly growing town on the Burlington Ry, 58 miles east of Billings, was designated as the permanent county seat. It is located about one mile west of the west bank of the Big Horn river, nearly opposite from where the Little Big Horn river flows into the Big Horn. While it was a thriving town at the time it was chosen county seat, it has made rapid advancement since that time, now numbering about 1,000 souls. During the period from April 1 to October 1 there has been expended in buildings approximately $135,000, among the number being the Sullivan two-story brick block with a frontage of 140 feet on Third street at a cost of $35,000. Besides numerous mercantile establishments and offices, this building will house the various county offices for the next five years. Many other business houses and fine residences were erected during this period, including the first custom flour mill in the county. Various business and social enterprises are represented, including two grain elevators, an oil station, two banks, a newspaper, an opera house, several grocery and dry goods stores, a drug store, two hardware stores, furniture store, harness and saddlery shop, steam laundry, a modern bakery, four saloons, two hotels, three restaurants, several rooming houses, two livery stables and other businesses, churches, a splendid public school, a public library and the Hardin Club, and an alfalfa products mill is in course of construction. The town council has just awarded a franchise for an electric light plant, which will be in operation about the first of the year 1914, and has taken the preliminary steps towards bonding the city for a sum sufficient to install a modern water works system and to take over the present plant, which has been outgrown by the town. There are a number of new enterprises contemplated, such as a sash and door and planing mill, a portable house company and a wholesale merchandise company.

An enterprise which will contribute largely to the future growth of Hardin and contiguous territory is that of the Big Horn Canyon Irrigation & Power Company, a corporation organized to develop the immense water power of the Big Horn river. This company now has a surveying party in the field locating an electric road from the Big Horn canyon, 45 miles south of Hardin, north through Hardin connecting with the Northern Pacific Railroad at Custer, 35 miles distant. In addition to the electric power to be generated by harnessing the river, the company proposes to irrigate a large area—some 125,000 acres—of bench land adjacent to Hardin. The town is growing rapidly in population and this is due somewhat to the splendid public school system and the public library. The diversity of industries adds greatly to the prosperity of its people. The farming industry is growing every year as more land is brought under cultivation, as all grains, grasses and root crops grow readily, ripen before frost and make abundant yields. The greater portion of the lands under the ceded strip have passed into the hands of private owners, yet there are a few additional homesteads opened from time to time and opportunities to purchase excellent deeded farm and ranch lands at reasonable prices are abundant; but, as the country grows and production increases, so will land prices advance. The Hardin Chamber of Commerce will gladly furnish additional information.

Big Horn County, Montana

Big Horn county, one of the youngest counties of the Treasure State, had its beginning the 13th day of January, A D 1913, at 12 o'clock, noon, which is evidenced by a certificate issued by the Secretary of State from his office in Helena, following an election held January 6, 1913, for the segregation of portions of Yellowstone and Rosebud counties to create the county of Big Horn. It has an area of about 5,000 square miles and an assessed valuation in round figures of $4,650,000. The development of the territory embraced in this county dates back to the setting apart of certain lands in the Crow Indian reservation, known as the "Ceded Strip," for the purpose of settlement. part of it homesteads, and later, certain lands were sold at public auction upon the deferred payment plan to the highest bidder. That additional lands will be set apart for sale or settlement is assured by the fact that the land office has just issued a notice declaring a number of sections subject to homestead entry on or after Dec 20, 1913.

Even in its infancy, the soils of Big Horn county produce crops equal to the best, and in many cases better in quality, than is produced in its sister counties. Especially is this true of dry land wheat, which grades No 1 Northern and consequently demands the highest market price per bushel. As the cultivated area increases from year to year, Big Horn county will shortly take its place in the front rank of the grain producing counties of the state. From the waters of the Big Horn and Little Big Horn rivers, with their many tributary creeks, is taken sufficient water to irrigate some 200,000 acres or more of land—about 125,000 acres of the same now being under cultivation. This embraces both government and privately owned ditches, the latter being represented in the 32-mile canal known as the Two Leggins Ditch, and the canals of the Big Horn Low Line Ditch Co and the Farmers' Ditch Company. Irrigation assures the production of crops without any thought of failure and the long growing season makes it possible to mature crops here, such as corn, tomatoes, melons of all kinds and kindred crops which a few years ago it was thought impossible to grow successfully in this state, and the yield per acre is much greater than can be grown in other sections of the inter-mountain country. Sugar beets thrive here as no where else, as do potatoes and all kinds of vegetables, as well as all kinds of grains and grasses. The "Pride of Big Horn County" is "King Alfalfa," which grows as though wild, day and night, in sunshine or clouds, and produces from four to seven tons per acre, in three and many times four cuttings per season. No more do we wonder where we will market this crop, for the quality of Big Horn county alfalfa is known afar in the world and there is now in course of construction at Hardin a mill for the purpose of grinding into meal and mixing the same. This mill has a capacity of 10,000 tons per season, but owing to the lateness in getting started this, its first season, only 3,000 tons will be ground this year.

In addition to the irrigated lands there are hundreds of thousands of acres of dry or bench lands of great producing properties. Many experienced farmers have demonstrated during the past five years that "dry farming," as it is termed, can be carried on profitably, regardless of the amount of rainfall, and with as great a percentage of profit on the investment as ordinary farming under irrigation. Throughout the bench lands of the county the average rainfall is greater than in most portions of the state, which accounts in a measure for the increased production over other sections. Wheat averaged as high as 42 bushels and oats 72 bushels to the acre the present season, when the rainfall was below normal. Above the dry farm lands are thousands of acres of hill lands which afford untold pasturage for grazing purposes. In some sections these lands are used in common by the resident farmers.

In addition to Hardin the county contains the following thriving towns: Crow Agency, 13 miles east of Hordin, headquarters for the government officers managing the Crow Indian reservation; St Xavier, 23 miles south of Hordin, where the Jesuit fathers maintain an Indian school; Lodge Grass, a thriving little town about 35 miles east of Hardin; Wyola, in the extreme southeastern portion of the county, and Foster, 16 miles north of Hardin. Extensive stock interests are maintained in the range country tributary to Kirby, Sarpy, Decker, and generally throughout the eastern and northeastern portions of the county, where thousands of cattle, horses and sheep are ranged.

R. L. POLK & CO.

ST. VINCENT'S HOSPITAL

CONDUCTED BY THE SISTERS OF CHARITY

On the north First Avenue car line at the corners of Division Street, Wyoming and Broadwater Avenues.

Medical, Surgical and Maternity cases admitted. On account of lack of suitable quarters we are not yet prepared to handle Contagious Diseases.

We are installing the most complete Scheidel—Western interrupterless X-ray equipment, which is the highest power machine made in this country or in Europe. With this machine it is possible to get instantaneous exposures of the heart, stomach, intestines, kidneys and gall bladder; also of the lungs showing the early stages of tuberculosis which could not be diagnosed by any other means. This equipment is also provided with a radioscope by means of which the actual movements of the organs of the body may be studied as they work.

No matter what the religious belief:—Suffering is the only passport necessary for admittance.

A Training School for Nurses is maintained in connection with the hospital. Any young ladies between the ages 20 and 30 who wish to enter should address the Superintendent of Nurses.

Rates and other information will be furnished upon application to the Sister Superior.
